

17TH RAINDANCE FILM FESTIVAL

30.09.09-11.10.09

We are happy to unveil our new trailer for this year's 17th Raindance Film Festival.

The trailer, commissioned as the prize for 'Film of the Festival' at last year's festival, re-unites the award-winning team behind 'Red Sands' and long-term collaborators David Procter & Peter King. Shot on location in London with a cast & crew of over 60, the 75 second trailer will be printed to 100 35mm prints and distributed to cinemas across the South-East through September. It will also screen before every film during the festival and prior to films distributed by Raindance over the following year.

Upon release the trailer was instantly banned by the Cinema Advertising Association for 'bringing advertising into disrepute.' This means that it can no longer be screened as a cinema advert but due to loopholes in the system and a subsequent BBFC rating of 15 it will now screen with the film trailers prior to films on general release. This, coupled with the huge PR boost from the ban will inevitably lead to even greater exposure worldwide. Full information on the ban and a very harsh letter from the CAA can be seen on the Raindance website at: www.raindance.co.uk

The trailer can be seen online on the Agenda Collective website at: www.ontheagenda.co.uk
